FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. — (AP) — Arraignment of a 36-year-old brunette held in Coconino county jail here as a key figure in the $1,500,000 Redfield burglary is scheduled for today.

The woman, Mrs. Marie Jeanne D'Arc Michaud, was taken from the Chicago-bound California limited by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents Sunday afternoon.

More Get Fired In Ford Union

DETROIT — (AP) — Additional removals of officials in the big Ford Local 600 of the CIO United Auto Workers union are contemplated.

Five already have been removed by the UAW board of administration that took over operation of the local yesterday on orders of the UAW's International executive board.

Joe McCusker, an administration board member and former president of Local 600, announced here may be further removals.

The five fired thus far were named as Communists by witnesses before the House Un-American Activities Committee here last week, and it was asserted before the committee that Communists were dominating actions of the local that led to UAW seizure.

Around 30 Local 600 members, many of them holding minor union offices, were named as Communists by House committee witnesses.

The UAW constitution prohibits anyone holding office who is a member of or subservient to the Communist, Fascist or Nazi party. Some of the accused have denied party membership, others have declined to say.

A four-member committee, which the board of administration named to act for it, took over operation of the local without incident yesterday.

Dallas Spared In Plane Crash; Marines Jump

By RAY CARPENTER
DALLAS — (AP) — A Navy Marine pilot ordered 20 servicemen out of a burning transport yesterday, then stuck with the plane until it passed over a residential area in southeast Dallas.

Two of the men were killed in parachute accidents. A third was missing. None of the others suffered injuries.

The known dead were identified as Lt. Cmdr. Lewis Joseph Garfield, Downey, Calif., and Marine Cpl. Carl L. Ductor of Cherry Point, N. C.

The Navy planned a search party today to look for the missing man.

The blazing two-engine R5C crashed and exploded into thousands of pieces of junk. It hit in an open field about one fourth of a mile from a residential area.

The left engine burned itself out of the plane and smashed into a field about two miles from the crash.

The R5C is designated by the air force as a C-46. It is known as a Curtiss Commando.

Capt. R. C. Wesley, Pensacola, Fla., was the pilot. He parachuted to safety from about 500 feet while the plane was in a screaming dive.

"I stayed with the plane because I wanted to make sure it missed those houses," Wesley said. "I sure hope that falling engine didn't hurt anyone."

Railroad Wage Talks Resumed

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The government resumes negotiations today in the three-year-old labor dispute between the nation's railroads and three operating unions.

Leaders of the three unions are coming to Washington—by plane—for a meeting with railroad representatives and the National Mediation Board. The unions represent firemen, engineers and conductors.

Latest incident in the controversy, which centers on rule changes proposed by the railroads, was a three-day walkout on the New York Central system west of Buffalo, N. Y., and the St. Louis terminal. This ended after the government obtained a court injunction banning it.

The Army technically runs the railroads, under federal seizure since mid-1950.

Dust Storm Whipped By Southwest Gale Is Worst In Years

ALBUQUERQUE — (AP) — The storm that deluged California last week shrieked across the high plains of eastern New Mexico and west Texas last night in the worst dust storm in years.

Winds up to 100 miles an hour churned the dust to sullen clouds 15,000 to 20,000 feet high.

Motorists Can't See

A small tornado ripped into Wichita Falls, Tex., with some property damage. Billowing dust halted auto travel near Hobbs, southern New Mexico oil center. Eight persons were hospitalized there after highway smashups.

The Wichita Falls, Tex., tornado damaged roofs, uprooted trees and disrupted electrical power. The weather bureau warned that other tornadoes might develop as the storm passed today over Texas and Oklahoma.

Headed For Midwest

The storm is expected to strike the Chicago area tonight. The weather bureau said the amount of rain and snow would increase as it moved east.

In the west Texas-New Mexico area, the wind whipped around a mixture of rain, snow, hail and sand—particularly sand.

Precious top soil, dried to dust by what has been called one of the worst droughts in the Southwest in the century, whirled high into the air. The wind reached a top velocity of 110 miles an hour at Wink, Tex., near the

Schuster Death Note Admitted By Gravedigger

NEW YORK — (AP) — An elderly gravedigger was held today as the anonymous writer of a threatening letter to slay Arnold Schuster, whose tip led police to bank robber Willie Sutton.

Sutton went on trial today for a 1950 $64,000 holdup. A heavy police guard stuck close to the slippery, three-time prison breaker, and detectives screened spectators.

Schuster, 24-year-old Brooklyn clothing salesman, was killed near his home March 8. Just a month ago, on Feb. 18, Schuster had spotted the nation's ace bank robber and prison escape artist on a subway train.

The FBI arrested the gravedigger, William Brinkerhoff Brown, 61, of New York, last night and said he admitted writing Schuster on Feb. 22 that "your days are numbered for being a squealer on Willie Sutton."

Later today, Edward Scheidt, head of the New York FBI office, said "there is no evidence implicating" Brown "with the shooting of the young salesman."

Brown was charged with violating the federal extortion statute and held for arraignment in Brooklyn.

Co-defendants with the 51-year-old Sutton are Thomas Kling, 45, and John De Venuta, 37. Their arrests followed Sutton's by a few days.

Sutton, known as "The Actor" because of the disguises he used in a number of spectacular holdups, already faces life imprisonment for four felony convictions. He never finished two of his prison terms, escaping from Sing Sing, N. Y., and later from Holmesburg, Pa., prisons.

Guns Rout 1000 Reds In Korea

By SAM SUMMERLIN
SEOUL, Korea — (AP) — Allied guns routed 1,000 Chinese Reds who tried to punch through U. N. lines on the western front before dawn today.

A U. S. Eighth Army staff officer said the scattered attacks along a four-mile sector northwest of Korangpo failed to dent the Allied line. The area was the scene of bitter fighting last December and January.

Allied warplanes prowled North Korean skies but heavy clouds sheltered many Communist ground targets. Fighter-bombers blasted 57 new holes in the wobbly Red rail system before noon. Other attacks were mounted against the Communist front lines.

A flock of giant snow geese set off air raid sirens in Seoul early Tuesday morning.

Then huge searchlights outlined the geese and the "raid" was over.

The wife, Edna, 35, was found dead Jan. 10. Kekaha, an Hawaiian, attempted suicide by poison after the slaying, but did not die. He claimed his wife rejected a reconciliation plan.

Dutch Queen Has Tough U. S. Schedule

By RUTH COWAN
WASHINGTON — (AP) — If you think your job is tough, consider that of Queen Juliana of The Netherlands.

Suppose within three weeks you had to address Congress and make nine other major speeches—all different—in a language other than your native tongue.

Suppose within three hours and 45 minutes you had to stand up and in a formal speech hold the attention of say Sen. Tom Connally, Sen. Joe McCarthy, Vice President Barkley, Speaker Rayburn, and then rush to three receptions at which you would shake at least 3,000 hands.

And all the time you've got to say "the right thing," look as if you really know each person you see—and keep the seams of your stockings straight and powder on your nose.

CONFERENCE ON HARBOR OPENING — Local fishermen and officers of the U. S. Coast Guard conferred at the Escanaba airport shortly before noon today regarding the request of fishermen that the ice breaking operations in Bay de Noc be delayed during the heavy smelt run. A decision will be made by the Lake Carriers Association and the U. S. Coast Guard in Cleveland. In the picture above are Walter Olsen, secretary of the Escanaba district fishermen; Commander A. B. Engel, executive officer of the cutter USS Mackinaw, Lt. W. H. Wilmot of the Coast Guard; Walter Bailey, president of the Menominee district fishermen, Murray Grabowski, and Martin William, Ingallston. The fisherman second from right is unidentified. Eisenhower Leaves Gate Open To Enter Race For President

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON — (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's promise he will "regularly re-examine" the political situation seemed today to leave the gate open for him to campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination.

Most members of Congress who commented on the five-star general's letter to Rep. Hope (R-Kan.) and 18 other House Republicans came up with that interpretation.

May Return In May

There was a difference of opinion, shaded by their support for other candidates, and few, if any, expect to see the general back in this country in civilian clothes before May.

In a March 10 letter made public here yesterday, Eisenhower said significantly he does not regard himself as "indispensable to the success of NATO"—the North Atlantic Treaty Organization command he now holds.

This was regarded as a direct answer to some of those plugging Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio for the nomination—notably Sen. Brewster of Maine—that success of the western European defense set up depends on Eisenhower's continued presence as its military leader.

Awaiting The Call

Asserting that there is "no question in my mind concerning the propriety of answering a clear-cut call to another and higher duty," Eisenhower said it was "an entirely different thing to leave a critical assignment for the purpose of increasing the possibility or probability of such a summons."

This recalled his Jan. 7 statement that he was available for the GOP nomination, but "in the absence of a clear-cut call to political duty" would not ask to be relieved of his command and would not join in pre-convention activities in his behalf.

The 19 House members supported.

Farm Group Split Over U. S. Aid May Affect Elections

By OVID A. MARTIN
WASHINGTON — (AP) — Whether farmers should have less help or more help from Uncle Sam is an issue driving a wedge between two groups of farm organization leaders.

Gone from the capital scene is the hand-in-hand unity with which farm organizations worked in the 30's and early 40's to secure federal farm programs—designed, in the beginning, to pull farmers out of a depression, and later, to keep them prosperous.

Bureau Conservative

In the forefront of the fight are the American Farm Bureau Federation and the National Farmers Union.

The Farm Bureau, generally regarded as "conservative" on economic issues, wants less federal activity.

The Farmers Union, which proudly espouses greater government participation in farming, has undertaken a campaign to discredit its sister organization with farmers. The union also is directing criticism at the National

Housewives Trampled Trying To Get Butter In Sydney, Australia

SYDNEY, Australia — (AP) — About 11,000 people went to McDowell's store in Sydney to buy 2,000 pounds of butter advertised for sale.

Twenty-two women fainted and others were trampled in the rush. Police had to restore order.

Sydney has had a butter famine for most of the past six months due to falling production. There is no official rationing, but dealers normally will sell only regular customers, and they get only a pound or less a week.

Congress Talks Of Slashes In Defense Goals

By JOE HALL
WASHINGTON — (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson said today he believes the Korean truce negotiations will be successful, but he cautioned against "either optimism or pessimism" in the present stage of the prolonged talks.

Acheson was before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to urge approval of the full $7,900,000,000 the administration asks for foreign aid.

Whole Field Covered

But under questions from Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.), Acheson's testimony became in effect a quick review of foreign affairs in general.

1. The United States is "continually working" to get its Allies to provide a larger portion of troops in Korea—without success so far.

2. The situation in Indochina, where the French are locked in battle with Communist-led forces, is "very serious" and will remain so until the French can put a large, trained native force in the field.

3. He is confident that France, despite its recent government crisis, will carry out its commitments to the North Atlantic Treaty alliance, and that Germany will do the same.

4. All the NATO countries are taking steps to check inflation which, by increasing costs, is a threat to their preparedness efforts.

5. The State Department hopes that negotiations to use some of Spain's facilities in the Western defense effort will bear fruit after the new ambassador to Spain, Lincoln McVeigh, arrives in Madrid with U. S. military representatives.

Governor Beams As He's Accused Of 'Red-Baiting'

LANSING — (AP) — Governor Williams' political luck is still holding up.

Just as Republicans started charging Williams of coddling Communists, one of the state's top Communist officials blasted the governor for "red-baiting" and threatened him with defeat in the November election, if he seeks reelection.

Williams beamed as he released an exchange of correspondence today with William Albertson, secretary of the Communist party of Michigan.

Albertson's letter said Williams would have won by a wider margin in 1950 and might have carried others on his ticket into office if he would have vetoed certain anti-Communist legislation and had not endorsed the anti-subversive constitutional amendment on the ballot that year.

GRAND RAPIDS LADY HIGHLY RECOMMENDS O-JIB-WA TO OTHERS

After suffering for two years with painful arthritis in her arms and legs, Mrs. Diana Jaarda, 37 Mack Ave., N. E., Grand Rapids, finally found blessed relief with O-JIB-WA BITTERS.

"I have been taking O-JIB-WA BITTERS for arthritis and want to tell you how much good your medicine has done for me and how wonderful I think it is. Before my niece recommended O-JIB-WA to me, I suffered for two years with pains and stiffness in my arms, legs and feet. My legs would cramp up so that I could not sleep, and when I got up in the morning, I would feel so bad that I would often lay down on the couch the rest of the day and might just as well not get up at all. I did my own housework, but it was all I could do. The pain in my knee was so bad that I couldn't bear to touch it. I am very grateful for O-JIB-WA BITTERS, for since I have taken your wonderful medicine, the stiffness is all gone and the pains are all gone too. My housework no longer gives me trouble and I'm not always tired like I used to be. I feel better than I have in years and you can refer people to me, for I will surely recommend it."

Draft To Call 19,000 In May

WASHINGTON—The Defense Department issued a May draft call for 19,000 men—15,000 for the Army and 4,000 for the Marine Corps.

The May call will bring to 1,913,430 the total number of Americans drafted or called to duty with the armed forces since selective service was resumed in September, 1950.

The Army's share of the draft now totals 832,000. The May call boosts to 81,430 the number of Marine draftees.

The May call for 19,000 men is for the same number of draftees as in April.

Marine Quotas Filled

For some months preceding the April call, however, the defense department had been calling up considerably more men.

In February for instance, the draft call was for 52,500 men. In March 28,600 were called up.

The defense department said the May draft call is sufficient to meet approved manpower goals for both Army and Marine Corps.

The Air Force and the Navy have relied on volunteers for their manpower. The Marine Corps began drafting recruits last August, 11 months after the Army resumed drafting.

The Army expects to have about 1,558,000 men in uniform by June 30. Marine Corp plans for the same date call for 235,320.

The Marines said recently they hope to quit drafting by July. Spokesmen explained the volunteer recruiting has been picked up considerably in recent months.

Casualties Drop

Both the Army and Marines have reported an increase in the enlistments by men who volunteered or were drafted shortly after the outbreak of hostilities in Korea.

Another factor entering into the smaller draft calls this spring is the decrease in battle casualties in Korea, which have been averaging about 300 weekly for several months during the lull which has attended the protracted negotiations for a military armistice.

He explained the teachers' exchange program in which the United States and other countries exchange teachers for a period of one year for the purpose of developing better international understanding and good will.

Education to 15
McKindles spent the 1950-51 school year teaching in London. He was one of 102 U. S. teachers who exchanged that year with a similar number of English teachers who came to the United States. The English system of public education, reorganized in 1944, provides for what is termed an infant school for children 5 to 7 years of age; junior school from 7 to 11; and grammar school for pupils age 11 to 15 pass the necessary qualifying examination. College and university training awaits those who want higher education.

Those who do not attend grammar school are students in technical and vocational schools. The compulsory school age is 15 for all children.

Salaries Are Low
McKindles cited experiences as a teacher in London, found the school program weighted toward the languages and lacking in extra-curricular social activities. Students were polite.

"Every question or statement from the pupil to the teacher was prefaced with 'If you please, sir,'" McKindles reported.

The salaries of English teachers are much lower than those paid teachers in the United States, he said.

Living standards in England are best described as "austere," with food and fuel rationed. Coal last winter was limited to two tons per household and provided only a little gas fire with the bedrooms unheated.

Appreciate U. S. Help
Food rations are meager with meat limited in amount per person to about nine cents per week. Taxes are heavy and the average Briton pays far more than does the citizen of the United States.

Valiant efforts are being made to restore England's economy but wars and loss of trade and, in some measure, the social experiments of the Labor government, have brought the nation's economy almost to the breaking point.

Financial aid from the United States is received gratefully but the average Englishman feels the U. S. is "too chesty" and too inclined to believe that international problems can be solved by dollars, McKindles concluded.

The speaker was introduced to the Rotarians by James G. Ward Jr., Rotary program chairman, and to the Lions by James Frenn.

EMIL JUNEAU uses a war surplus mine detector to locate nails spikes and foreign matter in tramway timbers before the timbers are run through the planing mill at Nahma.

Mine Detector Locates Nails In Tram Timbers

NAHMA, Mich.—The American Playground Device Co. planing mill on Monday began manufacturing lumber for repairs to Nahma dwellings and making log cabin siding for the rustic cottages on Nahma's beach.

Timbers salvaged from the Bay de Noquet Co. sawmill tramways are being run through the planing mill. The wood is first scanned with a mine detector to locate nails and other foreign matter that might be injurious to the planing mill saws.

About 300,000 board feet of tramway timbers were salvaged. In addition to the current use, the wood will be used for foundation work on Nahma dwellings and to manufacture log siding later for the modern 11-unit motel planned by the American Playground Device Co.

Rustic housekeeping cottages on Nahma's sandy beach are being enlarged and remodeled so that each will have a large living room with fireplace, two bedrooms, kitchen and bathroom. The cottages, which will be available for the 1952 vacation season, will be heated and electrically lighted. The American Playground Device Co. is also going ahead with plans to modernize the Nahma Hotel with the installation of either shower or tub baths in each bedroom.

Persons who know the whereabouts of the six "missing" members are asked to telephone Mrs. Jane Anderson Sovey, 1932 class secretary, at 3566 or contact her at 709 South 16th St.

Eight In City Council Race; More May File

Seven candidates have filed to noon today, an eighth is an announced candidate, and more may file in the race for four seats on the Escanaba city council before the 5 p. m. deadline today.

At stake in the April 7 city election are four seats on the city council, three for the full term of four years, and one for the two-year unexpired term left vacant by the death of Peter N. Logan.

The candidates are required to state on their nominating petitions whether they are candidates for the full term or the unexpired term.

Six For Full Term
To noon today nominating petitions had been filed at the office of City Clerk George Harvey for six candidates for the full term. They are as follows:

Atty. Robert E. Lemire, incumbent, 620 Fifth Ave. S.
Jacob Bink, 1019 First Ave. N.
Chester O. Rice, 2403 Ludington.
Wesley W. Hanson, 120 Washington Ave.

J. Emil Johnson, 1202 North 19th St.
Myron W. Legg, 318 South 10th St.

Retiring from the city council at the expiration of their present terms are S. R. Wickman and Nevin Reynolds.

Two For Unexpired
Holdover on the city council for another two years is Mayor Guy Knutson. This is the first time in the history of Escanaba, it is believed, that four of the council's five council seats are at stake in one election.

One candidate has filed and another has announced that they are seeking the two-year unexpired term. They are:

Edward "Ed" Cox, incumbent, appointed to the city council last October to fill the Logan vacancy. He resides at 210 North 13th St.

The announced candidate for the two-year term is Harold C. "Pat" Hayes, owner of the House of Ludington. His nominating petitions were expected to be filed this afternoon.

Also filed today is Matt Mayer of 609 South 11th St., candidate for city constable.

An estimated 60 per cent of the world's population over 10 years of age cannot read or write, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

The six persons named are the only graduates whose addresses are not known to the committee planning a reunion of the Class of 1932 to be held in Escanaba on July 5. All but the six named of 122 graduates have been located.

Persons who know the whereabouts of the six "missing" members are asked to telephone Mrs. Jane Anderson Sovey, 1932 class secretary, at 3566 or contact her at 709 South 16th St.

A general meeting of all class members living in the Escanaba area will be held next month. No meeting will be held March 19 as previously planned.

FOR FULL TERM—J. Emil Johnson, 35, of 1202 North 19th St., today filed as a candidate for city council, full term. During the shipping season he is employed as ore handler foreman at the C&NW ore docks.

Born in Escanaba, Johnson has lived all his life. He attended Escanaba High school, was employed for five years in the shipping department of I Stephenson company followed by two years with the North Western. He served as deputy sheriff for seven years and for the past three years has been employed at the ore docks. He is a member of Ore Handlers Local 400.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson have three children and reside in the home they have owned for the past nine years. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson, 1415 North 16th Street.

Give As Generously As You Can In Annual Red Cross Campaign

THE Delta county chapter of the American Red Cross has launched its annual campaign for funds. This year's goal is $16,000 to meet the needs of the local services and the national agency. It is a substantial sum of money but the county's success in meeting Red Cross quotas in the past shows that the people of Delta county understand and appreciate the vital services of the Red Cross.

Only the Red Cross is equipped with the talent, the facilities and the know-how to fulfill its humanitarian objectives to the utmost—at home, in disaster areas and with our servicemen overseas.

The American Red Cross is a truly great organization. The services it performs reach the lives of millions of people. It is the nation's greatest voluntary life saving and welfare agency. Many of its greatest achievements have been in the field of disaster relief but its services at home are of equal importance. A family burned out, a soldier in need, these are the objects of the Red Cross in humanitarian service.

Give as generously as you can, remembering the need and the quota that is set for Delta county.

Kefauver Victory May Smoke Out HST's Plan

THE Democratic regulars in New Hampshire must be a pretty unhappy lot these days. The man they snickered at, Senator Kefauver of Tennessee, moved in to their bailiwick and stole the primary honors from President Truman with little more than amateur support.

When Kefauver put himself in that race, the organization Democrats said he would not win a delegate of the 12 at stake and would get no more than 30 per cent of the party popular vote.

But the senator confounded them, even before the voting occurred. He went up and down the state shaking hands, throwing snowballs at kids, making friends with his frank, direct appeal for backing. A lot of eager though unschooled Democrats were drawn to his banner.

The regulars got worried. They opened a headquarters and began to pour on the coal. The conviction was that Kefauver now might do better than expected in the popular polling but that he would still be blanked on delegates.

As it happened, the organization did not go far enough in accommodating itself to the realities. Kefauver got better than 50 per cent of the vote, beating Mr. Truman by close to 5000, and captured all 12 of the delegates.

This doesn't mean the President is through. He can have the Democratic nomination any time he speaks for it. But it does suggest that there is more than ordinary dissatisfaction with the trend of administration affairs in Washington, despite Kefauver's disclaimer on that point.

It may indicate that the Democrats would like to see some new faces and hear some new ideas in the top ranks of their party. The readiness with which New Hampshire citizens took to Kefauver points that way. Since his TV fame had made little impact there, he was a virtual stranger to the state until he began campaigning.

If the President already has made up his mind to run, this event will not likely change his mind. He can argue that it simply reflects the fact Kefauver campaigned and he didn't.

Should he be undecided, Kefauver's win might arouse his dander and convince him he must run. Or it might be taken as the handwriting on the wall, and turn his mind definitely toward retirement.

Kefauver is entered in the Wisconsin primary April 1 under highly favorable circumstances. He is opposed by two favorite-son slates standing in for Mr. Truman, but the favorite sons are little known and the division of the Truman vote between them seems sure to benefit Kefauver.

A week afterward, Kefauver gets a ballot test in populous Illinois, where he has no opposition in the preferential primary. A healthy vote might add to his convention leverage, even though it would assure him no delegates. The Illinois primary is purely advisory, and delegate selections are under the organization (pro-Truman) thumb.

To be sure, there is one place where Kefauver could stumble. In Nebraska's race, also April 1, he is opposed by Senator Kerr of Oklahoma, who is reported to have marked strength in the plains states.

A sharp defeat at Kerr's hands would probably finish Kefauver. But a victory or a narrow loss, combined with good showings in the other states discussed, would put Mr. Truman on a real spot. He might find things getting rapidly out of hand. It is not easy to try to pick a successor while some other candidate is running around hanging up clear triumphs at the polls.

Consequently, the most definite points that can be made about the Democratic result in New Hampshire are that it suggests a decline in the President's popularity even among his own party, and it may help force his hand on the issue of declaring his 1952 intentions.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—A group of steel executives sat in OPS headquarters the other day listening to OPS officials explain a nice new price formula by which the steel companies would get a price increase under the Capehart amendment.

Most of the steel executives looked bored, twiddled their fingers, gazed out the window.

Reason for looking out the window was not the approach of spring on the mall outside, but because it has become apparent that the steel industry is not going to accept a modest price increase merely under the Capehart amendment but wants a larger price increase above and beyond this to compensate for a pending wage boost.

So what the bored looks on steel executives' faces meant was that the American steel industry is heading for one of the biggest strikes the nation has seen in the last decade.

15½ CENT WAGE BOOST

Here are the factors which make that strike just about as certain as the setting of the sun tonight:

1. The Wage Stabilization Board is recommending a wage increase for steel workers of about fifteen and a half cents an hour. This increase is based on accepted cost-of-living indexes and the fact that other workers, such as General Motors, have enjoyed regular wage boosts while steel workers have been tied down with a long-term contract.

2. The Office of Price Stabilization will oppose any price boost to compensate for this wage increase.

OPS will permit a price increase under the Capehart amendment which probably will average out at around $2.49 a ton. However, the Capehart amendment covers cost of production increases only between the start of the Korean war and July 1951. It does not include cost of production increases since last July. Therefore, the recommended wage boost is not covered by the Capehart amendment.

That was why steel executives looked so bored when they met with OPS officials last week. They were not particularly interested in the Capehart amendment increase which is decreed by law and which they knew they were going to get. What they were interested in was a price increase to take care of the expected wage hike. This they knew they were not going to get.

What they wanted was not $2.49 a ton increase, but from $6 to $10 a ton price increase.

And they knew they were not going to get this because the matter has been discussed backward and forward inside the Truman administration, and such friends of industry as Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson and Economic Stabilizer Roger Putnam, with ex-Gov. Ellis Arnall of Georgia, now price administrator, have decided against them.

They have decided first that steel profits had skyrocketed so high that there was ample margin to absorb the wage increase. They also decided that an increase in the price of steel would knock a hole as big as a barn-door in the side of price controls, and touch off a new wave of inflation.

SKYROCKETING PROFITS

Before he left OPS, ex-Price Czar Mike di Salle sent a confidential memo to his superiors which read:

Steel industry profits are running far above the industry earnings standards above the industry earnings standard which ESA has instructed me to use as a test for decisions on price increases. The excess above that standard is so large that the industry clearly can absorb any reasonably probable wage increase with a substantial margin left over for other cost increases.

"If a price increase were granted in spite of the industry's ability to absorb," di Salle continued, "the most serious consequences for the stabilization program must be envisaged."

Meanwhile, stabilization officials note a significant and vitally important contrast between the attitude of labor and industry in the steel dispute. Whereas industry leaders have been cool and uncooperative, Phil Murray, head of the CIO United Steel Workers, three times has postponed a strike waiting for the government to reach a decision.

This means, according to high-placed stabilization leaders, that industry, not labor, will be striking against the government—if it fails to accept the government's wage recommendations. That's also why, for the first time, there's talk of the government seizing the steel plants, not in a move against labor, but in a move against industry.

At any rate, the showdown date is this weekend, and if the government doesn't step in, fires in the blast furnaces will start being banked day after tomorrow.

Analysis Of Anti-Soviet Program Shows What It Cost, What We Got

Editor's Note: How many millions have we poured into the defense of Western Europe? What have we gotten out of it so far?

These are questions millions of Americans are asking themselves as Congress debates President Truman's request for $7,900,000,000 in new foreign aid.

Armed with hitherto-unpublished figures on country-by-country assistance, an outstanding editor-reporter has traveled through Europe measuring the extent of the gains bought with America's billions.

Here is his analysis. In the first of five dispatches supplied exclusively through NEA Service and the Escanaba Daily Press.

By RICHARD HOLLANDER

NEA Special Correspondent

PARIS—(NEA)—The people of the United States have spent nearly $12 billion—exclusive of loans—since the end of World War II to aid the actively anti-Russian countries of Europe, and every taxpayer has the right to ask:

Is this investment paying off? Obviously, the answer isn't as simple as the question.

First off, the money we've spent has to be broken down into three main categories. (See chart)

1. Immediate public and private relief—for DP camps and milk stations, for emergency food and winter clothing—to ease, temporarily, the personal tragedies of war. About $1.5 billion went for this purpose to these countries.

2. Long-term economic aid to rebuild the economy and local industry of the various countries so that they might one day stand on their own feet, cease to be a drain on U. S. taxpayers, and, through domestic prosperity, combat the internal menace of Communism. (This largely came to an end with the outbreak of the Korean war.)

3. Military aid to strengthen the countries with this aim in view: to make the anti-Communist and anti-Russian countries strong enough to discourage Russian aggression in Europe, or, failing that, to resist it until we can get rolling. This is what Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower continually emphasizes as "enlightened self-interest."

To achieve this it is sometimes considered necessary to continue economic aid to certain countries, to revitalize those local industries that conceivably can be turned to war production, and to make it possible for the governments to finance larger defense budgets.

But, with the approach of the bright Spring of another fateful year, we are not ready to face the threat of a Russian attack. This is the sober opinion of American observers and experts abroad who are prepared to face the grim facts. Most of them do face these facts. They are too close to the guns to do otherwise.

These impressions and opinions, together with the information in the rest of this series, were gathered on a reporting trip to 10 countries of Europe and North Africa to study the progress of rearmament of our allies.

But as 1952 moves ahead, there are certain specific indicators of how our money is being spent, and why, and with what result toward the ultimate goal of collective security.

If you look at some of our allies and potential allies in Europe with a cold eye you find a conglomerate of what a wry post-World War I humorist called "small busted nations." To which the unsympathetic would add "disgruntled, selfish and disagreeable."

There's France, for instance. Unstable politically, she is harboring millions of Communist sympathizers—and fighting every step of the way against further drains on her economy for development of such prime mutual security projects as air bases for the American jets.

So They Say

There are two ways to get a bigger slice of the pie. One is to take it away from your neighbor and the other is for all of us to pitch in and help make a bigger pie—Adm. Ben Moreell, president, Jones & Laughlin Corp.

There's nothing wrong with the South that a good dose of democracy won't cure.—Ellis Arnall, former governor of Georgia.

Contracts are being let wastefully, excessive quantities are being purchased, excessive prices are being paid, and luxury items are being stocked. One of the things that Congress must do is ride hard on the military and on civilian authorities.—Sen. Paul Douglas (D., Ill.).

There's Britain, with an economy almost on the rocks, but which could be recalled to robust health if some way could be found to mine annually some 20 million more tons of the coal that lies temptingly beneath the island.

Part of that problem could be solved with more mine labor. There are 2,000,000 unemployed people in Italy, many of whom would like to go to England to work in the mines. But the British mine labor organizations won't have it.

Then there's Italy with those 2,000,000 unemployed, a high birth rate, and a local problem of Communism similar to France's.

Those millions of Communist party votes represent a sufficiently strong danger to make any government walk warily when it comes to our demands that greater portions of the national budgets be earmarked for military defense.

Take Yugoslavia, newest col-laborator in our alliance against Russia.

Tito is no less a Communist dictator than when he was an honored partner behind the iron curtain. His country is woefully poor and only a long and expensive process of outside investment will bring the Yugoslav economy for war—or for peace—up to the posturing of the Yugoslav military talk.

Greece and Turkey are small and poor and have had to start almost from scratch in becoming modern military powers.

No one, not even Gen. Eisenhower in his North Atlantic Treaty Organization headquarters outside Paris, could begin to read the future of all this. It adds up to playing the odds of calculated military risks—since no one can tell what goes on in Stalin's mind—and at the same time assisting the economy of the various countries so that in the foreseeable future they can take over their own jobs of military defense.

There is only one thing that these mis-mated and often traditionally antipathetic nations have in common. They form a wall around the iron curtain, NATO's aim is to reinforce that wall with steel. And, despite the continuing problems that sometimes seem almost insuperable, there is reason to hope that this can be done—without eventually destroying the American taxpayer.

Tomorrow: France and Italy

Good Evening...

By CLINT DUNATHAN

HEAT AND LIGHT — A friend of mine who likes to peruse the Congressional Record sent me a marked copy to show that I failed to report some of the best argument in connection with the whereabouts of President Truman.

You may recall the recent column in which Senators Connally of Texas and Millikin of Colorado debated whether President was in Key West, Fla., or (as Sen. Millikin maintained) in "a hell of a fix."

Democratic Senator Connally snapped back if the President is in such a "fix" it is the same "sort of fix the Republican party has been in since 1933."

Mr. Millikin: "There are many indications that the Republican party is, no longer in that fix."

Mr. Connally: "Very well."

Mr. Millikin: "That seems to be a point of worry with the distinguished Senator from Texas."

Mr. Connally: "Oh, no; it is not."

Mr. Millikin: "Oh, yes."

Mr. Connally: "I have lived under a Republican administration."

Mr. Millikin: "The Senator from Texas has lived under all sorts of administrations, and he seems to thrive, no matter what kind of administration it is. Before long he is going to have the pleasure of living under a Republican administration again."

Mr. Connally: "I am taking a lot of vitamins and I will have to take a lot more if the Republicans get into power. I may survive. I do not know. They are not in yet—they are in according to their imagination."

ALWAYS POLITE—Senator Millikin, a Taft man and a Republican, of course, was to tangle with Democratic Senator Connally again a few minutes later.

This came about as Sen. Millikin extolled the voting record of Sen. Taft and the 80th Congress and lambasted President Truman. Politics, he said, had been dragged in and was going on right in the Senate.

Mr. Connally: "And is still going on."

Mr. Millikin: "Yes, still going on."

Mr. Connally: "Yes, keep on."

Mr. Millikin: "I will keep going, do not worry about that. We are going ahead."

Mr. Connally: "Go ahead."

Mr. Millikin: "I will go ahead whether the Senator from Texas does or does not."

Mr. Connally: "That does not mean anything to the Senator from Colorado."

Mr. Millikin: "Nor to the Senator from Texas, either."

Mr. Connally: "The Senator is getting into good company."

Mr. Millikin: "We are all in good company here. We call each other honorable men."

CONFUSION IN WASHINGTON — The House as well as the Senate has its debates and sometimes these have the added value of shedding light in the dark corners of Washington, D. C., governmental management.

You see, the District of Columbia has no government of its own. It is operated by a Board of Commissioners responsible to Congress.

One Congressman, a Mr. Harris of Arkansas, sought approval of Congress on his proposal to have government offices in Washington operate only on Central Standard Time.

This was opposed by a Congressman Gross, who said he wanted to find out who requested it "other than the golfers and mint-julep-p-squatters who like to preen themselves in the Washington, D. C., midnight sun."

The old fight between the forces of Standard and Daylight Saving Time broke up only after the following statement by Congressman Jones of Missouri, who favors Standard Time—anywhere.

Mr. Jones: "We should operate our offices on Standard Time. As is well known, there is no regular time for keeping offices of Members of Congress open but as a matter of fact they are usually open many more hours on the average than the ordinary office."

"We could still regulate our affairs on Standard Time so that our constituents if they wanted to call us would know what time it was and also would expect that we would be in our offices working on Standard Time and would not be confused."

Power With Words

By Dr. C. E. Funk

SOME ENGLISH PECULIARITIES

My son, an Air Force officer now in England, has been greatly diverted by the tendency of the English people to abbreviate many of the words that they use frequently in everyday speech. I'm afraid that he forgets that we have the same tendency here, or perhaps he has been so accustomed to our American abbreviations as to forget that "ad" is a contraction of "advertisement," "el" of "elevated," gas of "gasoline," "Coke" of "Coca-Cola," "frat" of "fraternity," "movie" of "moving picture," "auto" of "automobile," "phone" of "telephone," and many others.

But our cousins across the sea, as our fellow-users of the English language have been called, do have contractions and abbreviations that look and sound strange to us. Our women-folk would never think of speaking of a permanent wave as a "perm." It sounds flippant. About as silly as to call a finger wave a "fing" or "fin." And picture the look of bewilderment on the face of a floor-walker in Macy's or Marshall Fields if you were to ask where you could buy a "frige." That's short for "refrigerator" in England. Do you suppose an electric refrigerator is an "el frige"?

A vacuum cleaner is just a "vac" across the ocean, and, of course, it is thus no surprise that a raincoat is a "mac," short for "macintosh," which we usually spell "mackintosh." These all sound especially strange to us because they are somewhat new. Other older curtailed words used in England, but not over here, include: "pub" for "public-house," which we would call tavern or inn, or even saloon; "cinema" for "cinematograph," equivalent of a movie theater; "par" for "paragraph"; "tec" for "detective," equivalent to our slang "dick"; "pi" for "pious" in speaking of a religious person; "tan" for "tangent," and "pram" for "perambulator," or what we call baby carriage.

The Doctor Says...

Check Toxemia in Pregnancy

By Frequent Visits to Doctor

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

One of the most important unsolved problems connected with pregnancy is the question of toxemia with which Mrs. M. A. B. and others have had experience, and which they have asked me to discuss.

Although progress in obstetrics has been extensive, the toxemias of pregnancy have remained largely unconquered, and about six out of ten women who are pregnant will have some trouble of this nature.

Toxemias of pregnancy are responsible for about 1,000 maternal deaths annually in the United States, and approximately 30,000 infants who are still-born.

There are several kinds of pregnancy toxemias, but they are usually divided into the acute, including a preeclampsia and eclampsia, and the chronic, or high blood pressure type.

They are characterized by one or more of the following signs: high blood pressure, fluid or edema of the tissues, excretion of albumin or protein in the urine, and, in severe cases, convulsions, or unconsciousness.

As stated previously, the toxemias of pregnancy may carry grave risks for both mother and child. The fact that toxemias do exist is one of the principle reasons why a woman who is pregnant should visit her physician at fairly frequent intervals, especially during the latter portion of the pregnancy.

Those who do this—and all should—are familiar with the fact that the visit to the doctor almost invariably includes having the blood pressure taken, taking the weight of the mother, and sending a sample of urine to the laboratory. A rising blood pressure, a sudden excessive gain in weight, or the presence of albumin in the urine, are warning signs.

EARLY DETECTION NEEDED

Many lives have been saved by catching signs of toxemia of pregnancy early and sometimes by bringing about an earlier than expected delivery. The appearance of signs of toxemia in one pregnancy may carry an additional risk in the subsequent pregnancies, but on this question, each case must be judged on the basis of all the individual circumstances.

The chief point which cannot be too much emphasized is that complete obstetrical care involves more than just the delivery of the infant alone.

Baseball Has Made Changes

By ROBERT C. RUARK
NEW YORK—Mr. Tyrus Raymond Cobb has just leaped into print with some memoirs shaped to enrage the current crop of baseball athletes and their aficionados, and the old gentleman just might be right about three-quarters of the time.

The Georgia Peach's tirade in Life suggests rather strongly that today's crop of major leaguers are a flock of bums, for the most part; that the hallowed game has lost its quaint purity, and that things just generally ain't what they used to be when he was a boy.

Especially in the last category is the old diamond devil correct. Things have changed around these parts considerably since he dived feet first from the minors in 1905, and it is not illogical to assume that baseball may have changed with it. The horseless carriage and the aeroplane may have worked greater changes on the world than we yet suspect, including the ability of short stops to go to their left.

Sometimes I wonder what ever happened to the art of accurate tobacco-spitting, a craft in which most grown men and quite a few small boys were exceedingly proficient some years ago, but which no longer seems to be requisite to the social graces. It is possible that it went the way of the emery ball, the shine ball, the rock-hard diamond and the 10-day blue shirt as a badge of the baseball player.

Baseball's Thuggish Days

In Mr. Cobb's day, or so Pappy Clark Griffith used to tell me, ball-players wore thuggish caps and were often not allowed in the better hotels. They came largely from the plowed ground of tiny towns, and were regarded socially as somewhere between poolroom habitués and prize fighters. They gave all their time to baseball because there wasn't much else for them to do or many other places they were welcome.

They became proficient in all the sneaky artifices of pitching subterfuge and hoodlumed conduct on the diamond, because they were rough men from a rough background, making slim wages in a mean, dog-bitten sport that was played more like a war than a game. They saved every cent they made, paid no taxes, and were able to retire on the earnings of a few years. The retirement incentive itself is absent today, due to taxes, and the off-season labors which Mr. Cobb so abhors are necessary if the athlete intends to eat after he can't run out a hit any more.

The badge of proficiency then was the iron-man pitching stunt, and tight, strategic ball played as dirty as they could get away with. The way the oldsters tell me it was pretty grim, with few elements of sportsmanship evident to counter-balance the bean ball and the up-lung spiked foot. A man had to stay in fighting condition to survive.

Times Have Changed

It is a little ridiculous for any old man to become so caught up in old, embellished memories of his youth that he can righteously condemn a youngster in a different sport as a poor practitioner, yet Cobb lavishly condemns Joe DiMaggio and Ted Williams. He does it without considering that they were not paid fabulous salaries to bunt, or to endanger their livelihood by on-field rowdiness that could pay off in serious injury. DiMag got his 100 g's and Williams got his chunk for belting that ball as far and as often as possible.

Cobb's right about baseball having one off as a precision sport, for it has long been a battle of the home run, with pitchers as pawns rather than principals. But you still get the superb 1-0 extra-inning throwing performances of his youth, and you still see an occasional base-clearing effort that will erase many a memory of a judicious bunt.

When Mr. Cobb entitles his piece, "They Don't Play Baseball Any More," he is right when he refers to the game of his hey day. They don't box bare-knuckle any more, either, and you see so few horses used as common carriers. I also believe the bow-and-arrow is thought to be passe as a method of warfare, but we still have wars, and they have become no less popular with the masses.

Story Of His Rise To Presidency Told By Ex-Haberdasher

WASHINGTON—(AP)—M. J. Pendergast came into my store one day and asked me if I'd like to run for eastern judge.

I told him I'd be delighted to do so. He didn't know I was busted.

With this matter-of-fact beginning, President Truman tells in a book published today the story—the "fantastic" story, as he calls it—of his rise from haberdasher to President.

The book, "Mr. President," written by radio commentator William Hillman from material supplied by Truman, stresses it was M. J. ("Mike") Pendergast, and not his brother T. J. ("Boss Tom") Pendergast, who brought him into politics.

T. J. Pendergast went to prison many years later for income tax fraud, and Truman's political enemies have made much of the President's connections with the Kansas City political organization.

Store On The Rocks

Truman apologizes for nothing in the account he gives, in his own word, in "Mr. President."

He says the haberdashery run by himself and Eddie Jacobson was on the rocks when Mike Pendergast—father of Truman's World War One friend, Jim Pendergast—approached him on the subject of becoming a candidate in 1922.

"Our creditors drove Eddie into bankruptcy," Truman says, "but I became a public official and they couldn't do that to me."

The Jackson county "judgeship" to which Truman was elected actually was the non-judicial post of county commissioner.

Backed By Boss Tom

And the President says he filled it so honestly and so capably that several state and federal grand juries which went over his record "with a fine tooth comb" couldn't find a thing to criticize.

Truman says his first contact with Tom Pendergast came in 1927—five years after his election to the county post.

At that time, he says, Pendergast backed up his refusal to give certain politically-connected contractors the "inside track" on road building work.

Truman goes on to say he's been instrumental in setting up a Congressional district which, he felt, would have sent him to the House of Representatives for the rest of his life.

But in 1934, he says, he was "maneuvered" into running for the Senate and was elected easily on a new deal platform.

Contrary Missourian

Truman says Tom Pendergast—who ran the Kansas City organization while his brother Mike ran Democratic affairs in the rest of Jackson county—made only one effort to influence him as a Senator.

James A. Farley, then Democratic national chairman, phoned Pendergast and asked him to "tell" Truman to vote for Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky—now vice president—in a contest for Senate majority leader, Truman says.

When Pendergast relayed the message, Truman says he told him he already was committed to vote for Sen. Pat Harrison of Mississippi, and he quotes Pendergast as saying:

"I told Jim that if you were committed you'd stand by your commitment because you are a contrary Missourian."

Truman gives this appraisal of Pendergast:

"In his prime he was a clear thinker and understood political situations and how to handle them. His word was better than the contracts of most businessmen. His physical breakdown in 1936 got him into serious trouble."

"I never deserted him when he needed friends x x x and I am President of the United States in my own right!"

Popularity Vote Sparks Primary

ST. PAUL, Minn.—(AP)—A late developing, wide-open popularity contest shares interest with the delegate election in today's Minnesota Presidential primary—first in the state since 1916.

Only three candidates are on the ballot. Contesting for 25 Republican delegates are former Governor Harold Stassen and Edward C. Slettedahl, a St. Paul school teacher, who is supporting Gen. Douglas MacArthur and Sen. Taft, (R-Ohio).

Slate For Truman

The only Democratic candidate is favorite son Sen. Hubert Humphrey, who entered at the request of national party officials. His 23 delegate slate had been planned for President Truman.

Each party will elect two delegates from each of the state nine Congressional districts. Seven Republican delegates and five Democrat delegates will be elected on the basis of the statewide vote. Each party will name three more at-large delegates at its state convention. All will be pledged.

The contest was set off last Friday by a ruling from Attorney General J. A. A. Burnquist that "write-in" votes must be counted and recorded.

Appeal For Write-Ins

The ruling opened the way to votes for all candidates, including Gen. Dwight Eisenhower whose name was ruled out because his filing petitions were inadequate, MacArthur and Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), who had withdrawn, and Sen. Taft who had refused to enter.

Eisenhower supporters, hoping to following up the general's New Hampshire victory, made strenuous appeals for write-in support. Some Kefauver supporters followed suit.

Senators. He does not know whether any new economic aid to Japan is contemplated after the peace treaty, now awaiting ratification, goes into effect.

Trimmed To Limit

As for the bill before the Senate, Acheson said he feels that needed items were cut "to the limit of safety" when the $7,900,000,000 measure was framed.

There have been demands by various senators that the economic aid figures, in particular, be slashed considerably.

W. Averell Harriman, director of the mutual security agency, was the opening witness at hearings by the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Harriman yesterday completed two days of questioning before the Senate group, stoutly maintaining that all of the money Truman requested was needed to meet the free world's defense goals in the next year.

Many members of Congress have announced they will vote for cuts ranging from one to four billion dollars.

The Senate meanwhile continues its debate on ratification of the Japanese peace treaty. Leaders hoped for a final vote by late today or tomorrow.

Pal Of Dead Bandit Held In Slaying Of Detroit Detective

DETROIT — (AP)—The 28-year-old drinking companion of a dead bandit was held today in the holdup-slaying of a Detroit detective.

Police said the man in custody, factory worker William Budzinski, admitted he had been drinking Saturday with Edward (Sweetie) Kozlowski, who died that night of injuries suffered during his arrest.

Officers said gunpowder had been found on Budzinski's fingers and his hat had been recovered near the variety store where Detective Russell Blanchard, 49, was shot to death while answering a robbery call.

Budzinski, who is held for questioning, denied his presence at the holdup-shooting, officers said, although he said he had been with Kozlowski earlier Saturday night.

There, officers said, two 17-year-old boys picked him out as looking "pretty much like the man" who, with Kozlowski, jostled them just outside the variety store Saturday.

The boys said they saw Kozlowski take a gun from his pocket and put it in his belt, then enter the side door of the store with his companion.

While hunting for a policeman to tell of the gun, the boys said they heard shots.

Pickford Bank Payoff Rejected

PICKFORD, Mich.—(AP)—Accusing some of its partners of "bad faith," depositors of the closed bank of Pickford set out today to hire an attorney to carry on their legal battles.

More than 1,000 of the bank's depositors met last night in the Pickford High School auditorium and unanimously rejected a payoff proposed by the partners.

George Anderson, an Ohio attorney and chairman of a depositors' fact-finding committee, charged some of the bank's partners with "attempting to cover up" assets of the defunct bank.

The bank was closed last fall after the Halloween suicide of bank partner and cashier Ford Beacom. Depositors have been told that auditors found shortages of "just under $90,000" after Beacom's death.

The partners had proposed that depositors be paid off "just under" 50 cents on the dollar.

Last night Anderson accused the partners of "transferring and concealing certain assets that were properly a part of some of the partners' personal fortune that conceivably should be reached by the depositors."

Financial statements of some of the partners, Anderson charged, "were sketchy, incomplete and inadequate."

Anderson said assets of the bank should have been taken immediately under the control of Receiver Harold McGauley and "should have been enjoined by court order from dissipation."

Assets $647,000 McGauley, as receiver, has asked the court for permission to make an immediate 20 per cent payoff of the bank's total deposit of $1,425,802. But this was turned down by the State Banking Commission on legal grounds. A hearing has been set for June 10.

Anderson said the bank's assets now figure at about $674,000, which at this time would make a total payoff of only 43 per cent.

The partners had proposed adding $90,000 to the assets to permit the payoff of "just under" 50 cents.

After the meeting the depositors committee met with Joseph Herbert, Manistiquette attorney, and said its choice of an attorney would be made Wednesday night.

LANSING — (AP)—Senator Elmer R. Porter (R-Blissfield), bringing the golden rule to the Senate, proposed last night to block a pay raise granted to the legislature.

The $1,000-a-year increase in expenses and salary was voted by the Legislature last year, but was not to be effective until the 1953 Legislature takes office because of a constitutional bar to raising public officials' salaries during the terms for which they were elected.

"We can't sit here and talk economy and not practice it ourselves," Porter said.

He is chairman of the Senate appropriations committee which has taken the lead in cutting off funds for a pay raise granted state employees by the Civil Service Commission.

Porter's bill would hold the Legislature to its present salary of $2,400 and $500 expenses. The law he attacked would raise each of the 132 lawmakers to $2,900 salary and $1,000 expenses.

The Senate passed two House-approved measures to crackdown on hunters who shoot their fellows in the woods.

One bill would cause cancellation of the hunting license for three years and confiscation of the gun of any intoxicated hunter.

The other fixes penalties for the accidental death or injury of a human due to reckless use of firearms. The penalties would include two years in prison or a $2,000 fine and one year in the county jail.

Rep. Potter Declines Invitation To Address Michigan Legislature

LANSING — (AP)—Rep. Charles E. Potter (R-Mich) today declined with regrets a partially-extended invitation to address the legislature.

The invitation was voted by the Senate after the conclusion of Detroit hearings by the House Un-American Activities committee of which Potter is a member. But the House had not yet added its approval, as required.

The Senate added a provision that the invitation was good only if Potter had not announced as a candidate for the Republican nomination for U. S. Senator. He is rumored to be considering that race.

Potter telegraphed legislative leaders that his committee duties would prevent him from accepting the invitation, tentatively scheduled for Thursday.

Sleuth Morris Stirs Ire Of Congress In Hunt For Corruption

By JERRY T. BAULCH

WASHINGTON — (AP)—Newbold Morris faced more trouble from irate Congressmen today as he set out to ask 25,000 higher-paid government officials to list their sources of income.

The mailing of questionnaires to the 25,000 signaled the launching of Morris' widely-heralded search for corruption in the government. He called a news conference to unveil details of the questionnaire.

Answer Or Resign Morris has made clear that government officials receiving the quiz sheet have no choice about filling it out, short of resigning.

He said if anyone refuses to give the desired information on outside income and is not fired, he will quit himself.

President Truman has called on the entire executive branch to give Morris full cooperation.

Meanwhile, chairman McCarran (D-Nev) summoned his Senate judiciary committee into closed session and announced he would urge it to reject Truman's request that Morris be given power to seize records, and summon witnesses.

McCarran said he would vote such powers only for some clean-up man appointed subject to Senate approval—and with safeguards for Congressional investigative powers.

Too Much Disrespect McCarran contended that Morris had shown "utter disrespect" for Congress and the people who elect its members.

The Nevada Senator was one of several lawmakers who expressed resentment over Morris' hot tempered testimony last week before a committee questioning him about his role in profitable stock deals and trade with Red China.

Morris accused some Senators of showing "diseased minds" in their questioning and he called Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) a character disreputer.

The President appointed Morris, a New York Republican, on Feb. 1 to cleanse the government of wrongdoers. The corruption crusader has been under fire since—principally from his fellow Republicans.

Youth Burns School To Settle Argument On Building New One

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich.—(AP)—An 18-year-old high school youth who settled an argument over whether his town needed a new school by burning the old one down was held today on a charge of arson.

Sheriff Richard Weiler said James L. Swable admitted setting fire to the East Bay Township school last Sept. 11 because listening to "too many arguments about the old school finally got too much for me."

The historic building five miles east of Traverse City burned to the ground with a loss of $12,000. Now a new one is being built.

Young Swable said he went out one night while his parents were away, stuffed newspapers in a foundation ventilator of the school, set them ablaze and went home to bed. When his parents returned home they told him the school had been destroyed.

Bosoms Problem In Italy, France Says Designer

By JAMES E. PARLATORE
ROME—Italian and French women can blame their bosoms for their inability to dress as elegantly as their American sisters, says Schubert, a Rome fashion designer.

"The bosoms of Italian women are too big," he asserted. "And French women are—well, too flat—stressed to give their clothes a proper fit."

Schubert, a slim, fragile-looking man with a passion for wearing exaggerated rings and gold-linked bracelets on his hands, said the American girl is "taller, more slender, has longer legs and her bust is perfect—sartorially speaking."

"The American girl got that way, according to the designer who never uses his full name, Emilio Federico Schubert Von Glaghaus, because she leads a more active life, exercising through sport or work."

She's Not Careless
Schubert said that the American girl "continues to take care of herself even after she's married while the Italian and French girls grow careless and allows herself to become a bit sloppy."

The designer, who has dressed many daughters of European nobility and whose outfits are sold in several exclusive American shops, has a theory about women's upper contours.

"The French women are indolent and therefore, inactive," he said. Italian women, on the other hand, insist on eating starchy foods and almost always nurse their children. That isn't going to help them keep a well-formed bosom."

Diet and Exercise
The American girl, he said, "has a balanced diet, exercises and generally takes care of herself."

"It's impossible to dress a woman properly when the upper portion of her body prevents the garment from draping correctly," he said.

"A top-heavy woman never looks well dressed."

What should a woman do who has been amply endowed by nature?

Schubert screwed his face into a puzzled expression, reflected a moment and replied by lifting his shoulders into the air several times.

AS WE LIVE

Living On Your Own Is Fastest Way To Mature

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, Ph. D.
One of the best ways of growing up and of learning to be independent is to go away from home and face life without the protecting arms of parents around you. This is especially helpful in the case of girls when they are tied to their mothers' apron strings. When a girl realizes that she is immature, as this girl does, the best thing for her to do is to try living alone for a time.

(Q) "I am 20 years old and would like to be treated as such. Wherever I go, I am treated as 16 or younger. It is true that I have a small build and a baby face but my mother tells me it is because I have an inferiority complex. About a month ago, a month ago, a girl I work with asked me to come and live with her. I know I would have more responsibilities than I now have but I thought this would help me to grow up and face life.—C.T."

(A) Nothing makes a person grow up and learn to face responsibilities more quickly than having to stand on her own feet without the helping hand of a mother or father. So long as you remain at home, your parents are likely to continue to do things for you and you will continue to allow them to do so. As a result, you will continue to be immature in your behavior.

Your immaturity of behavior is, I am sure, more responsible for making people think you are younger than you are than your baby face. And so long as people continue to think of you as younger than you are, you will have an inferiority complex, as your mother now tells you you have.

Go out on your own for a time and see how it is to be your own boss and your own guardian. It will be hard at first and there may be many times when you will bitterly regret your decision. But, in the long run, you will be glad that you gave yourself a chance to grow up as you cannot always have your parents with you to help you along as they have done in the past.

After you show your parents that you can be independent, they will change their attitude toward you and will not pamper and baby you as they have done in the past. When you return to their home to live, as you will doubtless want to do after a reasonable time, they will realize that you are no longer a child and they will begin to treat you as a grown-up. This will help you to act like a grown-up rather than like a child.

Dr. Hurlock will help you with family problems. Write her in care of this newspaper.

Substitute Believed Found For Plasma

NEW YORK—(AP)—Scientists believe they have found a substitute for blood plasma—a new substance using red blood cells which are now largely wasted in getting plasma.

The product, known as modified human globin, has proteins taken from the red blood cells and prepared so that they can dissolve in human blood and feed the body, like plasma.

Dr. Max Strumbla, director of the John S. Sharp Research Foundation, said over the weekend that the globin could be produced more cheaply than plasma. He added that its use would increase the protein yield of each blood donation by "more than three times."

It is the protein part of plasma that is valuable when patients are given plasma for nutrition or to combat shock.

Some rabbits have a disease which results in horn growths on their bodies which, if they are properly placed, may appear to be horns.

Elks To Discuss Youth Program At Meeting Tomorrow

Election of officers and discussion of a proposed youth program are scheduled at a regular meeting of Manistique Lodge No. 632, B. P. O. E., at the Elks Temple tomorrow night. The session is scheduled for 8.

Officers were nominated at a special meeting last week, and will be installed at a session April 2.

A proposed youth program, drafted by the lodge's youth committee, was presented two weeks ago but action was postponed to permit greater study of the plan by members.

Plans for its third annual amateur show will be discussed by the Manistique Lions Club at its regular session at Denny's restaurant tonight, it is announced. Large Crowd Attends Legion Birthday Party On Saturday Evening

A large crowd was present Saturday evening for the American Legion birthday party, held at the Legion hall, Walnut St.

A long table was decorated in St. Patrick's Day colors and was centered by a huge birthday cake across the top of which was inscribed "Happy Birthday, Legionnaires". Green and white balloons festooned the hall.

The first slice was cut from the cake by Mrs. George Huber, Legion Auxiliary president, and James Sangraw, Legion vice commander, while the group sang "Happy Birthday". The top layer of the cake was later donated to patients at the Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital.

Pot luck lunch, furnished by the Auxiliary, was served buffet style. The program included a brief message from Vice Commander Sangraw, a dartball contest with the balloons as targets, and a dance. Mrs. Bertha Johnson played the piano, with Miss Carol Olson at the drums.

Prizes during the evening were won by Mrs. Cleve Mero and Mrs. Joseph LaMuth.

Social

Martha's Birthday

Martha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hull, celebrated her seventh birthday anniversary this afternoon at a party in Miss Effie Carrington's first grade room at Central school.

First and second graders were guests. Following the taking of a group picture about 3 p. m. the children were served cake and ice cream.

Dr. Silverman's report, Dilworth added, showed the bullet entered the left side of Meade's face, broke his jaw and lodged in the right cheekbone.

Meade maintained he was not shot but was injured by flying glass. He said he was sitting by a window in the hotel lobby when someone from outside fired three shots. The broken window glass cut him in several places, Meade told police.

Dilworth has said "on information I have received, Meade was shot by Miss Virginia Carroll, from inside the lobby."

Miss Carroll, a friend of Meade's, is a former employee in the district attorney's office.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to all the kind relatives, neighbors and friends for their kindness shown us at the recent illness and death of our beloved husband, brother-in-law and uncle, William Maxwell. We are grateful to Rev. A. Barton Brown for his comforting words, to the doctors and nurses of the hospital, the blood donors to those who served as pallbearers, furnished their cars, sent floral and spiritual offerings and to all others who aided us in so many ways. The memory of these acts will ever remain with us.

Signed:

Mrs. Susan Maxwell and relatives

To the Voters of the City of Manistique:

I have filed my nominating petitions for the office of Justice of the Peace to be voted upon at the Spring Election. The term of office is for two years, that being the unexpired term of Edwin W. Gray, who resigned. Having served as your Justice for the past two years, I feel that I have gained the necessary experience to ask for a continuance in office. I have endeavored at all times to be fair and impartial in the conduct of my office and, if elected, I promise the same consideration in the future. I realize that it is quite easy to criticize a Justice of the Peace but this is done purely on hearsay whereas the Justice is guided solely by the facts in the case and the law pertaining thereto. I have endeavored to serve you to the best of my ability and I hope that my performance as your servant for the past two years will merit your support at the coming election. I wish at this time to thank the many friends who have volunteered their services in my behalf and especially to those who were instrumental in circulating my petitions. May I urge you to exercise your right of franchise on April 7, 1952.

Victor P. Deemer

We'd like to add our congratulations to the Escanaba and St. Joe basketball teams . . . Tournament trail has ended for both quints, but the teams left marks to be proud of in the 1951-52 season . . . Both lost regional tournament games, Escanaba in the semifinals and St. Joe in the finals . . . But both turned in good losing performances and bowed out by extremely narrow margins.

St. Joe's Pete Kutches added another laurel to his long string of high school honors . . . Kutches now owns the highest single-season individual scoring total ever posted by an Upper Peninsula high school basketball player . . . The new record is 588 points in 20 games for a 29.4 average this season . . . Until this season the U. P. record was held by Jim Mills of Brimley with 559 points in 25 games . . . Norbert Puro of Ironwood broke that mark with 567 in 20 games . . . Kutches erased that record with his 33 points in the championship Class C game Saturday night.

Incidentally, we credited Kutches with 31 points Saturday night . . . Our scorebook shows a field goal for guard Bob Sendenburgh which does not show up on the official tournament book . . . But, of course, the official scorebook is the one that counts, so we changed ours yesterday morning to correspond.

Phil Creten, former Gladstone High School cage star, completed his freshman season on St. Norbert College's basketball team as the seventh highest scorer on the squad . . . Creten scored 43 field goals and 34 free throws for a 120 total . . . He alternated at the pivot with Bob Bugalski of Milwaukee, who scored 172 points . . . St. Norbert won 15 of 26 games and shared honors in the Midlands Conference for the first time in history.

Al's Quint Travels To Cooks Tonight, Game Slated For 8:15

Al's Tavern cage team travels to Cooks to face the Bombers in an 8:15 independent basketball clash tonight.

Al's quint dropped a pair of one-point decisions over the weekend. Ghiardi's of Negaunee nipped them 48-47 and the Kingsford Drugs turned the trick 45-46.

Junior Hawks Of Delta County Enter State Hockey Tourney

For the first time in the history of ice hockey in Escanaba, this city will be represented in a state championship hockey tournament when the Junior Hawks, a team composed of players from Escanaba, Gladstone, Cornell and Wells, compete in the state juvenile meet in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., this Saturday and Sunday.

All members of the squad are members of the Michigan Amateur Hockey Association and the Amateur Hockey Association of the United States and have cards to prove it. Robert J. Grabowski, of Escanaba, their enthusiastic manager, pointed out this morning.

The Junior Hawks, who won the Delta County Junior league title this season with an all-Escanaba lineup, to promote and encourage the development of hometown talent in this area.

Raise Fund To Send Nahma Champions To East Lansing Games

NAHMA—A campaign to raise money to send the state Class E championship basketball team of courage the development of hometown talent in this area.

The Escanaba entry, whose members are 17 years of age or under, will meet Saginaw in the opening game of the tournament at 2 Eastern Standard time Saturday afternoon. All games will be played on artificial ice at Sault Ste. Marie's Pullar Stadium.

Cadillac and Detroit No. 1 will meet at 4. Detroit No. 2 and Grand Rapids will collide at 7 Saturday evening, and immediately following this game Sault Ste. Marie and Marquette sextets will clash.

It was planned to send Escanaba and Gladstone entries to the state pee-wee tourney in Grand Rapids Saturday and Sunday, but because of the great distance involved, it was decided to forego this until the entire junior and juvenile program in Delta county is better organized next season.

Hawk Team Roster

The Escanaba Hockey Association hopes next year to send Escanaba and Gladstone entries, which will include players from Cornell and Wells and elsewhere in the county as well, to both the state juvenile and pee wee tournaments. The so-called "pee wee" meet is for players 13 years of age and under.

Marquette and Sault Ste. Marie are the only cities in Upper Michigan which will be represented in the Grand Rapids meet this season.

The Escanaba manager announced his squad roster this morning as follows:

Escanaba Junior Hawks — Wayne Olson, Edward Provo, David Mileski, Michael Goymerac, James Bolm, Richard Johnson, William Buckland and William Rodman.

Wells—Richard Delvo.

Escanaba Southside Knights — Leon Mileski, Harlan Pepin.

Cornell Blue Links — Clifford Mattson.

Gladstone Falcons—John Berg, William Bovin, Robert Bizeau and Duane Rajala.

Unknown Beats Champion Hoppe

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—An unknown San Franciscan last night handed perennial champion Willie Hoppe his first defeat in three years in a world three-cushion billiard tournament.

Ray Kilgore, 40, a 10-point or 5 to 1 underdog (take your choice) defeated the 64 year old Grey Eagle 50-47 in a tense 53 innings. He had to overcome both his own nervous pressure, which built up heavily toward the finish, and an extremely tight Hoppe defense.

The combination was so terrific that Kilgore scored only two points in a 12-inning stretch. Meanwhile, the champ pulled from a 36-45 deficit into a 47-47 tie and many fans feared Ray had cracked under the strain.

Wins On Tickle

But the well-liked and loudly-applauded Irishman answered the champion's tying 4-run with two billiards of his own. And in the next inning he made a delicate reverse-English tickle (cushion, ball, two cushions, ball)—and was mobbed by autograph seekers.

The loss dropped Hoppe into a 5-1 won-lost tie for first place with Kinney Matsuyama of Tokyo. It was the Drexel Hill, Pa., cue star's first defeat in world tourney play since Joe Chamaco, 1939 king and three-time runnerup, dumped him in 1949.

TEXAS COWGIRLS

Texas Cowgirls Play Here Against Al's Friday Night

Something new on the independent basketball scene will be offered in this area over the weekend. Invading the U. P. for a five-game stand are the Texas Cowgirls, travelling cage squad that combines beauty, brains and basketball ability.

The team makes its first appearance in Escanaba against Al's Tavern Friday night in a 9:15 clash. Saturday night the girls meet Rodman's Bar Foxes at Hermansville and Sunday afternoon they go to Stephenson to face the Strollers. They close the tour at Negaunee Monday night. A game at Niagara is slated Thursday evening.

Formed By Kearns

The all-girl pro team is considered one of the finest women's basketball teams in action today. The team was formed by Jack "Doc" Kearns, world famous fight manager who brought the great

Jack Dempsey to the top of the heavyweight class. Kearns is current manager of Joey Maxim, light heavyweight champion.

The team claims the "world's women professional basketball championship" and Kearns has a standing offer of $5,000 to any team challenging the claim.

The squad is made up of the best of 332 girls who tried out for the team. It boasts such stars as Jean Love, six-foot, six-inch center from El Paso, Tex., and Lynn Boss, of Tacoma, Wash., former women's singles tennis champ in her home state in 1949.

All-Around Athlete

Miss Boss stands six-feet even and plays at guard. Another all-around athlete with the squad is Vivian Lee of Omaha, Neb. She is an outstanding softball player and also has been a professional wrestler. She has been with several roller derby teams and is holder of a license to drive in stock car races.

The girls play regulation men's rules and have never been beaten by another all-girl quint. They have faced such outstanding teams as the Minneapolis Lakers, losing by only two points.

Tickets for the Friday night game here are being sold in advance at Al's Tavern, L & R Sports Shop, Saykly's, Michigan Hotel and by the Al's Tavern players.

Title Bout Gets Okay

CHICAGO—(AP)—A middleweight title bout between Champion Ray Robinson and Rocky Graziano April 16 in Chicago Stadium has been approved by the Illinois Athletic Commission despite a charge that Rocky has an "undercover manager."

The charge was made at yesterday's commission meeting by Tom Duggan, TV-radio sports commentator. He said the match should not be approved because Graziano is managed by Eddie Coco of Brooklyn. Coco is appealing a murder conviction in Florida.

Duggan said his informant was Arthur Carlson, assistant state attorney of Dade County (Miami) Fla., and that Irving Cohen of Brooklyn, generally recognized as Rocky's manager, is only Coco's representative.

Under oath, Graziano told the commission that he broke off with Coco last January. He admitted that up until that time he had paid Coco 10 per cent of his purses since he started boxing as a professional in 1943.

Although approving the title bout, the commission said it would investigate the allegations and if the probe shows Coco still has a tie-up with Graziano the April 16 fight would be dropped.

Saddler Downed But Comes Back

BOSTON—(AP)—World featherweight champion Sandy Saddler bounced back from his first knockdown by a featherweight in 143 bouts to whip Irish Tommy Collins of Boston last night in a furious slugfest at the Garden.

A St. Patrick's night crowd of 12,670 leaped roaring to its feet when Collins dumped the New Yorker on the canvas with a solid left halfway through the first round, but the 23-year-oldster didn't have the artillery to beat the veteran titlist.

Referee Joe Zapustas stepped in and halted the fight at 2:30 of the fifth round after Collins—holder of the New England featherweight crown—had been floored three times in that session. It was a scheduled ten-rounder. Saddler weighed 130½, Collins 130½.

Saddler had Collins against the ropes under a savage two-fisted attack that climaxed an action-packed belting spree between the blood-covered boxers.

But until that fifth round, Saddler had all he could handle as both boys concentrated on the offensive.

Collins, making a giant step upward against the accomplished champion, stunned Sandy with a flurry of lefts and rights in the opening moments of the battle and then caught him with a short left to the chin. Saddler crashed back onto the seat of his pants, sat there a couple of seconds and then got up to take the remainder of the required eight-count standing.

Home Town Fans Thrill To Araujo's Ring Wins

AP Newsfeatures

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—Soft-spoken but hard-hitting George Araujo of Providence is the first boxing "comer" Rhode Island has produced since long before World War II. And almost every resident of the smallest state in the Union is pulling for him to dethrone lightweight champion Jimmy Carter before he reaches voting age.

Now 20, the Providence boxer has won 26 professional bouts in a row and lost but once in 40 starts. Recently he gained a clear-cut 10-round decision over featherweight titlist Sandy Saddler in a non-title bout in Boston.

It was the most important victory in Araujo's career but he took it in modest stride.

"The only champion I'm interested in is Jimmy Carter," Araujo said, when hometown admirers mobbed him after the Saddler verdict. "When I beat Carter for his title, then all of us will have something to cheer about."

At the tender age of nine, Araujo decided to make boxing his career. He pestered Leo Hunt, Providence's genial CYO boxing director, for lessons and finally won his consent.

Under Hunt's careful guidance, George improved steadily and was New England's AAU bantamweight champion before he was 16. When he turned professional, Hunt handed him over to two competent Providence tutors, Frankie Travis and Bobby Viti.

They were so cautious handling the youngster that critics outside Providence snickered at the long list of victories Araujo strung together in his hometown ring. He Nahma to see the state Class A, B, C and D tournament at the Michigan State College gymnasium in East Lansing has been launched here.

Large photographs of the Maroon and White squad, taken during the presentation of the Class E trophy at Crystal Falls Saturday night, will be autographed by members of the team. High school girls will sell the autographed pictures for one dollar each to raise funds to finance the trip to East Lansing.

Nine boys, accompanied by Coach Harold Anderson and Assistant Coach Ira Hanson, will leave Nahma on Thursday for East Lansing. They are: Cornelius Sochay, Paul Thibault, Lawrence Seymour, Wendell Roddy, John Gereau, Harold Hebert, Lavern Cayemberg, Donald Groleau and Duane Popour.

Orders for the autographed team pictures may be sent to the Nahma High school.

Nahma won the state Class E title by defeating Marenisco, 64 to 44, at Crystal Falls Saturday night. There is no Class E competition in Lower Michigan.

Anti-Trust Suit Is Filed Against IBC

NEW YORK—(AP)—The International Boxing club, which has contracts with every world champion from featherweight to heavyweight, today was faced with the biggest fight of its three-year career.

The government filed a civil anti-trust suit against the club yesterday maintaining the IBC is conspiring to monopolize championship fights in the United States.

Commenting on the action in Washington, Attorney General J. Howard McGrath said the suit was intended to remove monopolistic practices. The public, contestants, promoters, and radio and television broadcasters are "entitled to a free, competitive market in a business which commands such wide public interest," he added.

Lots Depends On Three Tiger Hurlers; Trucks, Art, Gray

LAKELAND, Fla.—(AP)—Red Rolfe turned from the batting mound. He hoped for sharper practice, tugged at his cap with one hand and with the other pointed to three players ambling from the clubhouse.

"See those fellows. If they can pitch all season the way they look right now, it'll make a lot of difference for us," said the Detroit Tiger manager.

In Red's mind the three hurlers—left-hander Ted Gray and right-handers Art Houtteman and Virgil Trucks—look as sharp and ready as almost any pitchers he's seen in Florida.

"Big Three" He's counting on them as his "big three," men who can start every fourth day.

If they shunt aside sore arms—such as plagued Gray and Trucks in parts of '50 and '51—the Tigers could be contenders. All three are throwing fast with a loose, easy motion and finding the plate.

Houtteman, as poised and effective as when he won 19 games in '50, was to be one of Red's pitchers against the Philadelphia Athletics at Lakeland today. Dick Littlefield, provided his arm felt ready, was to be the other.

Apparently Art's year of absence in the army didn't soften his fast ball or slight his control.

Trucks Fast

And Trucks, who won his last six games last season, got the supreme compliment from former fireballer Dizzy Dean, now a radio broadcaster:

"Look at that guy throw. Should win 20 games for you guys."

Gray perhaps is the overwhelming surprise. The little speedballer didn't impress opponents in previous years on the Florida circuit. And in the regular season he never quite rose to expectations.

Late last season he altered his follow through, adopting a slight switch in his stride from the mound. He hoped for sharper control.

His closing performances were impressive—only 61 hits off him in the last 72 innings. And he's just as good this spring.

"Gray never looked better down here," said Red who hopes Ted can go at his early 1950 pace when he won 10 games prior to July 4—and then developed a sore arm.

Eye Rookies

Red will fill in his other starting slots with comeback-bent Hal Newhouse and other veterans like Fred Hutchinson, Dizzy Trout and Marlin Stuart.

They've all tromped past the 30-year-old mark. But what they lack in youth, they've got in experience.

Red plans to fill out his nine or ten man pitching staff with relief hurler Hal White and one or two of the eight rookies in camp. Of course he may keep more rookies around until the squad-trimming deadline in May.

Yesterday the Tigers, with no game scheduled, worked on batting and fielding. General Manager Charlie Gehringer, who arrived Saturday, trained a watchful eye on rookies and newcomers and huddled with Rolfe.

As a result some of the players will start slipping off to farm clubs soon.

The Tigers play the Boston Braves at Bradenton Wednesday.

Johnson Upsets Clarence Henry

PHILADELPHIA — (AP)—Harold Johnson isn't anxious to fight heavyweights despite his upset victory last night over Clarence Henry. Johnson only has eyes for light heavyweight champion Joey Maxim.

Johnson won a split decision over Henry, third ranking heavy-weight title contender. One judge and the referee voted for Johnson 5-4-1. The other judge gave Henry the nod, 5-2-3. Just for variety the AP card went along with Harold 5-3-2.

Afterwards Johnson explained his aversion to heavyweights: "The weight is too much for me to make, take tonight. I weighed 178, the heaviest of my career. Yet I felt as if I needed a few more pounds to really hit a man like Henry. I want a title fight with Maxim."

Cute Fight

The Philadelphia Negro fought what the experts term a "cute fight." He found himself out-manned at the start by the hard and sharp punching 186½ pound Henry. His manager, Tommy Loughrey, realizing Harold would get nowhere leading with his chin, instructed his boy to counter punch. That won the fight. Johnson kept smashing his right hand inside Henry's left, landing repeatedly to the body and face. Johnson didn't look long for this world in the first two rounds. Blood streamed from his nose and in the second he staggered and almost went down. But he collected his wits, strength and courage to win his biggest fight.

No-Hitters Rare In Spring Games

By ED CORRIGAN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

If you think no-hit games are a rarity in the regular season, look at the record during the exhibition campaigns.

When Jim Hearn and Monte Kennedy joined forces to set the Chicago Cubs down without a hit for the New York Giants yesterday, it marked the fourth no-hitter since 1939 tossed during the spring.

But they're getting more common. Back in 1939, it was the late Cy Blanton of the Pittsburgh Pirates who handcuffed the Cleveland Indians. Then there was a gap until 1948 when Murry Dickson turned the trick for the St. Louis Cardinals over the New York Yankees. Last year, Lou Sleater and Ned Garver did it for the St. Louis Browns over the Cards.

Good Omen

Of course, the Cubs are rapidly gaining themselves a reputation of being punchless, but it still could be a good omen for the Giant hurlers. When Blanton pitched his, he was in his heyday with the Pirates. And last year, Garver hung up 20 victories.

Hearn went the first five innings and faced 17 men while Kennedy finished up and faced 15 batters. The Giants, meanwhile, slapped the offerings of Bob Kelly and Bob Rush for 10 runs.

The Cleveland Indians, who have looked the part of champions all April, finally dropped one. The St. Louis Browns had to overcome a 6-0 deficit to beat the Indians, 8-7. Satchel Paige gave up two hits in a three-inning stint for the Browns. One was a homer by Al Rosen.

The world champion New York Yankees won their seventh game in nine starts by defeating the Washington Senators, 8-5.

Acc right-hander Allie Reynolds started for the Yanks for the first time this spring and held the Nats to three hits and two runs in four innings.

The St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Philadelphia Phillies, 6-5, in 11 innings when Wally Westlake singled, stole second and raced home on a wild throw. It was the Card's fourth extra-inning exhibition in the past week.

Max Surkont and Chet Nichols held the slugging Boston Red Sox to four hits, as the Boston Braves whipped their rivals, 2-1.

24 Years in National League
NEW YORK—(NEA)—Q. What club leads the National League in World Series victories?

A. St. Louis leads with six followed by the Giants with four.

Q. What did Ty Cobb, Honus Wagner and Babe Ruth all receive in their first full seasons in the big leagues?

A. Cobb received $2000, Wagner $2100, and Ruth $3500.

Q. What was Dizzy Dean's average for wins per season?

A. Jerome Hanna Dean averaged 24.2 victories a year, which is better than the four modern-era Hall of Famers—Cy Young, Christy Mathewson, Walter Johnson and Grover Cleveland Alexander.

Q. If Casey Stengel's Yankees win the American League pennant again this year, won't it be a new record for winning the flag consecutively?

A. No, but it will tie the American League mark set by them under Joe McCarthy from 1936 through 1939, and the four in a row achieved by John J. McGraw's Giants from 1921 through 1924 for a National League record.

Today Is Last For Petitions

The deadline for filing of nominating petitions for candidates for places on the Gladstone city commission to be filled at the coming spring election on Monday, April 7, is at 5 this afternoon.

Thus far petitions have been filed for Walter Reid, Rex Stowe Sr., and Paul VerHamm. All are seeking a three-year term.

Two other petitions are out, one for Adam Sinclair, the other for R. A. Hale, and both are expected to be filed sometime today before the deadline.

It is likely that Sinclair will run for a full term while Hale is expected to seek the one year term to fill the remainder of the term left vacant when George Mathison resigned.

Three places are to be filled on the commission the terms of Lied and Sinclair and Hale expiring. Two commissioners will be named for 3 year terms while one will be named for the year remaining of Mathison's unexpired term. Hale had been appointed by the commission to fill the vacancy until the next regular election was held when, according to charter provisions, the vacancy must be filled by the electors.

Is There An Ulcer On Our Funnybone?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—(AP)—Is the belly augh getting old-fashioned? One way to judge a people is to read what they laugh at. And there are some who believe the American sense of humor is going downhill.

Many professional comedians complain the nation is developing an ulcer on its funnybone.

"People are too tense," they say. "People won't take the kidding they used to. They don't like to laugh at themselves any more."

An antidote to this trend in a tense political year is provided by editor Donald Day in a book of selections from Will Rogers called "How We Elect Our Presi-

Women applicants for enlistment in the U. S. Marine Corps, all of whom formerly had to be high school graduates, are now eligible upon successful completion of the general education development tests, it was revealed today by Marine Sergeant Sulo Salmi of the recruiting station in Iron Mountain.

Young women from 18 to 30 inclusive may enlist in the Marine Corps or the Marine Corps Reserve for periods of either three or four years with an initial six weeks of recruit training at Parris Island, S. C.

A variety of jobs, ranging from administration to special services, at posts and stations throughout the U. S. and in some cases Hawaii, are offered to young women who enlist now. Those interested may contact Sergeant Salmi at 210 E. Ludington St., Iron Mountain.

What In The World?

By L. EARLE DAVIDSON

BONN, Germany — Chancellor Adenauer, of the West German Republic, in an interview with our group of American editors said he believed future historians would pay high tribute to the American people for recognizing their responsibilities so early after gaining world power.

"Winston Churchill told me in London that generosity creates confidence," and said the chancellor. "I want your people to know that this principle will be borne out in our case. We do not wish to incur any debts which we cannot pay, with interest."

Chancellor Adenauer received the American newspapermen in the Palais Schaumburg, which now serves as the West German chancellery. The interview took place in a large, modernly furnished drawing room. The furniture is of latest design with blonde wood and green upholstery. A large blonde grand piano stands in one corner of the room. Gold drapes at the ceiling-high windows and three giant crystal chandeliers add to the luxurious appearance of the room in this palace which was once owned by a

Controller Criticized For Splitting State Offices In Detroit

LANSING—(AP)—"Little Hoover Commission Task Force" today criticized State Controller Robert F. Steadman for dividing the state building and the state property management divisions.

The task force recommended the two agencies be merged again as they were before Steadman took office.

The report said operating costs of the state-owned Cadillac Square building in Detroit are high in comparison with 22 other Detroit office structures, but that the state-owned Boulevard building is being operated more economically.

The task force recommended a general tightening up of the processes under which the state leases $1,000,000 worth of space a year.

The legislature was advised to appropriate building funds in the spring instead of effective July 1. The change would save the state money, the task force said.

The task force was headed by E. Arthur Edwards, executive secretary of the building owners and managers association of Detroit.

"SWAN SONG"

Mozart's most popular opera is considered to be "The Magic Flute" in two acts, which had its premier in Vienna in 1791. It was the composer's swan song, being composed during the last year of his brief life.

An object out in interplanetary space, away from the attraction of the earth or another planet, would have no weight but would still have mass.

the Federation of Europe. Both France and Germany would gain from such a step."

The German refugee problem was discussed with the editors by Werner G. Middlemann, foreign minister for expellees. He said an influx of 9,500,000 refugees had increased the population of West Germany by 20 per cent since 1949. The influx is still proceeding at the rate of about 15,000 to 20,000 Germans monthly from the Soviet zone and of some 1,500 non-Germans from satellite nations.

In answer to a question about anti-semitism, the chancellor said he had always believed it to be abominable, and that all humanity—and Germany in particular—should make some atonement for its sins.

Regarding the rearming of Germany, Mr. Adenauer said he had opposed the use of the word armament, which today is a foreign product in Germany. On the other hand, he said, if the German people are to become a neighbor and make their contribution to the West, some means of integrating German soldiers into a European federation, under the command of SHAPE, is to be expected.

When asked if there was any danger that a rearmend Germany might again embark upon aggression, he pointed out that only SHAPE could command the soldiers of Germany, or any other member of the European federation, to march.

"Germany's past does not start with the last two wars," said the chancellor. "It goes many centuries back. I don't blame France today for what Napoleon did. And perhaps a search would detect blemishes on both sides of the ocean. I have heard harsh words about your own Civil War."

"From a practical viewpoint, however, I want to take Germany with all its virtues and vices into

The rapid influx of so great a number of inhabitants gives rise to difficulties of all kinds, since integration into economic, social, cultural and political life requires the complete readaption of all institutions and laws.

Interesting was the fact announced by Mr. Middlemann that all German expellees and refugees enjoy equal legal standards with West German citizens, including the right to vote.

There are at present 62 expellees and refugees among the 402 members of the German parliament. Even among the 14 members of the Federal German cabinet, two are expellees, one of whom is Mr. Middlemann himself.

Non-German refugees enjoy equal rights with German citizens, said Mr. Middlemann, except that they cannot vote.

During 1949, 1950 and 1951 the government built about one million housing units on which priority was given to expellees, but there are still more than 340,000 living in mass camps and the density of population per housing unit has grown from 3.5 to 5.3 persons.

Unemployment among the refugees is still very high in spite of the fact that West Germany employment is considerably above pre-war levels.

The refugee problem is one of three great cost factors which, if nothing else were involved, bring home to the German population the price of defeat. The other two are the rebuilding of its bombed out cities and its contribution to European defense.
